GROWTH AND INVESTMENT FOR LEADING ENTRUST CLINICAL TEAM

After four years of successful growth and development, Entrust Clinical, part of the Entrust People group of recruitment specialists, has started 2014 with a significant re-launch of its proposition and brand to the client and candidate sectors. This has been further to an expansion of its specialist clinical team and the opening of a new office in Aberdeen and Paisley - all affirming their commitment to be recognised as the leading specialist resourcing solutions provider for the clinical sector.

The project has seen the launch of a new website, which has been developed to provide clients with an informative overview of the Entrust Clinical business model and extensive experience within the clinical industry and provide candidates with an efficient recruitment search functionality and an information and advice resource hub.

The site is based around the company's vast in house clinical expertise, experience and knowledge, allowing them to offer tailored recruitment and resourcing solutions for individuals. Their creative and flexible approach to candidate placement and recruitment offers a range of resourcing solution from Contracting, Outsourcing, Direct Hiring, Executive Search, In-sourcing as well as the development of tailored designed teams for client requirements. Using strong foundations in industry networks and a team of highly experienced consultants to achieve this, Entrust Clinical provides a strong insight into the market and uses its global experience and reach to provide excellent talent to their clients and a career journey to their candidates, using coached staff who really understand the clinical project lifecycle across European & South African markets.

"Having worked within the industry ourselves, we understand some of the obstacles facing clients in relation to temporary, contract work and short tenures", said Austin Clark, Director "We are aware of industry skills shortages and the project coverage required for clinical trials between stages as well as the options and implications around choosing permanent or contract staff. But because of our understanding of the fundamental resourcing objectives of this high growth sector within which we have strong foundations and to which we have strong access, we are able to quickly identify key talent who are skilled and trained for the role specified and offer our clients both security and ongoing support through an expert and consultative approach whatever the scale of requirement".

Entrust People has a strong belief in people, and their strong relationship with clients and candidates is wholly down to their people and the expert and wealth of experience that they have. Entrust Clinical are delighted to announce the appointment of Jill Ingham as Resourcing Consultant for Entrust Clinical. Jill started with the Entrust Clinical team in December 2013 with a BA Honours Business Studies in Human Resource Management & Marketing from the University of Strathclyde Business School in Glasgow as well as professional experience spanning Clinical Research Outsourcing at ClinTec International
